AS OF: SEPTEMBER 30, 2018

Equity Global, aggressive

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY AND PROCESS

The fund consists of a diversified portfolio of stocks that are clearly undervalued. An undervaluation is identified when four valuation models reach the same result independently of each other. The first model is a simple, sound and informative valuation model with very short-term time horizon based on analyst estimates. The second model is the full and completed valuation model according to Prof. Stephan Penman. The third model is an empirically generated combination of the key components of the large valuation model. The last one is a statistical model using a random forest model. The more positive votes of these models, the merrier the expected performance. Titles with a high market capitalization are preferred as part of the selection process. In the allocation there are no restrictions with regards to sectors or regions. The stocks are equally weighted.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The object is to maximize the rate of return without risk limitations. By exploitation of verified capital market anomalies the fund seeks to outperform the benchmark. Combining quantitative methods with the knowledge and experience of a successful investment team is the key to success.
